

SYMPTOMS OF KIDNEY WORM

Look Out When Hog Apparently Suffers Paralysis of Hind Parts and Inability to Rise.

Symptoms of kidney worms in hogs are the imperfect use of the hind legs, inclination to lie down, a seeming paralysis of the hind parts and inability to rise on the hind feet. According to some authorities the kidney worm is not common among hogs though occasionally one or two hogs in a herd may suffer from its presence. It is not found in the substance of the kidney but in the hollow portion, in which the secretion of urine takes place. What is said to be a certain cure is to pour a tablespoonful of turpentine across the loins or small of the back, daily for several days. Another remedy is to mix and feed in the night's feed for three days one teaspoonful of sulphate of iron (copperas) and one teaspoonful of sulphur. Sometimes a longer treatment is necessary. Corn meal mixed with wood ashes and used with success at the first appearance of the complaint.

PURPOSE OF RIPENING CREAM

Fundamentally That Giving Butter Desired Flavor—It Increases Efficiency of Churning.

The purpose of ripening cream is fundamentally that of giving the butter the desired flavor and aroma, but, in addition, it increases the ease and efficiency of churning. Cream is ripened in one of two ways:

First, it sours or ripens as a result of the action of bacteria which are normally present in milk and cream;

Second, it ripens as a result of action of a certain kind of bacteria which are added to what is termed a "starter."

CHINCH BUG MAY BE TRAPPED

If Insect Goes From Wheat to Corn, It May Be Captured in Ditches—Also Use Oil Barrier.

The chinch bug sucks the juices of corn, wheat, sorghums and other plants of the grass family. They may be trapped in dusty ditches if they go from wheat to corn, or in rainy weather an oil or tar barrier may be necessary. If they get to the corn, spray it with soapuds, emulsion, or tobacco solutions. The clump-forming grasses by roadsides and in waste lands may be burned in late fall and early winter to kill chinch bugs which collect there for the winter.

Head-off That All-winter Cough

At the first sign of sore throat, tight chest or stuffed up head take a dose of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. The healing pine-tar, soothing honey and glycerine quickly relieve the congestion, loosen up the phlegm and break up your cold. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey has all the benefits of the aroma from a pine forest, it is pleasant to take and antiseptic. The formula on the bottle tells why it relieves colds and coughs. To Cook Dried Corn.

Take the quantity needed and soak for six hours in just enough water thoroughly to cover the corn. Then put in the double boiler and cook until tender. Do not add extra water. Season with butter, pepper and salt. A cupful of cream makes it most delicious. This should be put in when the corn is half cooked so that it will absorb most of the cream.

To Clean Currants.

A quick way to clean currants, when making cake, is to put the fruit into a colander with a sprinkling of flour, and rub them around a few minutes with the hand. It is surprising how quickly the stems become separated and slip through the holes.

UNCLE SAM GAINED RECRUIT

How One Young Man Was Induced to Enlist Under the Flag of His Native Land.

A well-known young attorney who has been much interested in the civilian training camp and in general preparedness, received a husky young man, a caller at his office.

"Hello, Fred," said the visitor. "I just wanted to ask a little favor."

"All right, shoot. What is it?" the lawyer responded.

"I want to borrow 35 cents. I need just that much to get to Richmond."

"Sure, I'll let you have 35 cents. Got a job in Richmond?"

"No."

"Well, what are you going over there for?"

"Oh, I haven't anything else to do."

The borrower and the lender both were from Richmond. The lawyer gave him the 35 cents, then said:

"Say, what do you want to go to Richmond for? Why don't you enlist?"

"Is there going to be any fighting?" the borrower asked.

"Maybe. But that will do you good. Come on, let's go over to the recruiting station."

"Not me."

"Oh, yes, you will. You're not doing any good running around. Get a little experience—join the army and see the world, as the advertisements say."

All the while they were walking. And the first thing the man who borrowed the 35 cents knew he was in front of a recruiting officer answering questions. Now he's in the service, 35 cents and all.—Indianapolis News.

Smokeless Powder Making Booms. Smokeless powder is being manufactured in larger quantities in the United States than at any other period in the nation's history. Census Director Rogers announced. The outbreak of the European war gave a great impetus to production. Latest statistics compiled reveal that production a year ago passed the 25,000,000-pound mark, the figures representing the output of both private and government-owned establishments. At present, with scores of new explosive plants running full blast, experts say that production can be conservatively estimated at 50,000,000 pounds a year.

WHEN YOUTH WAS GLORIOUS

Many There Are Living Who Could Have Directed Mark Twain in His Search for Material.

The adventures of "Sam" Clemens and his comrades would fill several books of the size of "Tom Sawyer." Many of them are of course forgotten now, but those still remembered show that Mark Twain had plenty of real material, writes Albert Bigelow Paine in St. Nicholas. It was not easy to get money in those days, and the boys were often without it. Once "Huck" Blankenship had the skin of a coon he had captured, and offered to sell it to raise capital. At Selms' store on Wild Cat corner the coonskin would bring ten cents. But this was not enough. The boys thought of a plan to make it bring more. Selms' back window was open, and the place where he kept his pelts was pretty handy. Huck went around to the front door and sold the skin for ten cents to Selms, who tossed it back on the pile. Then Huck came back, and, after waiting a reasonable time, crawled in the open window, got the coonskin and sold it to Selms again. The boys did this several times that afternoon, and the capital of the band grew. But at last John Pierce, Selms' clerk, said: "Look here, Mr. Selms, there's something wrong about this. That boy has been selling us coonskins all the afternoon." Selms went back to his pile of pelts. There were several sheepskins, but only one coonskin—the one he had that moment bought. Selms himself, in after years, used to tell this story as a great joke.

Hard-Earned Money.

I was seated at the same table with a father and small boy the other morning in a dining car. The father promised the boy a nickel if he would eat all of his breakfast food. The boy ate it and collected his nickel. Later during the morning the boy became restless and was seeking amusement as best he could, when a man came through the Pullman selling candy, magazines, etc. The boy wanted his father to buy some gum. "You have a nickel," the father told him, "can't you buy some gum for yourself?" "O, that nickel is mine," he answered promptly; "I earned that."—Chicago Tribune.
